Dear Jacop Eapen :

due to a number of work problems I was never able to find out about that issue of the Social Scientist devoted to Feminism in which you wanted to include some of our materials. I must add that I had asked a sister from our group to send you the articles and carry on the correspondence with you, but to my knowledge nothing seems to have come out of it. I realise that a long time has gone by but I would still like to find out what has happened and if that issue came out.

In case you are still interested in our materials, aside from the two articles of mine that have already been sent to you, I would suggest an article by Mariarosa Dalla Costa "Reproduction and Emigration" that is particularly fit to be published on a journal like the Social Scientist. "Reproduction and Emigration" was originally published in Italian in AAVV, L'Operaio Multinazionale in Europa (The Multinational Worker in Europe, ed. Feltrinelli 1974) and in M.F. Dalla Costa- L. Fortunati, Brutto Ciao (Edizioni delle Donne, 1977). Concerning this article I have been authorised by the author to deal directly with possible publishers in English speaking countries.

I would also be glad to suggest further pieces if you would let me know about issues of your journal to which we could contribute relatively to specific themes.

Sincerely,

Silvia Federici

I was in New York when Silvia Federici sent to you her letter of October 10 suggesting to consider for publication in your review my article "Reproduction and emigration" already translated in English. We both think that the best will be that you ^{will} receive directly a copy of this translation so that you will be able to read the article.

For this reason I am sending ^{to you} an English copy of "Reproduction and emigration" and the Italian original in "brutto ciao". Silvia Federici told me that you would like to consider just materials that will not be published in any other speaking English review. I think that this will not always be possible for our materials that often are directed to different audiences and in different areas so that different places of publication could be considered convenient on the same time by us. May be also this is the case of "Reproduction and emigration" that also "Zero Work" - a new review printed in New York (just 2 issues came out) - want to include in number 3.

In any case let us know what you will decide a propos of "Reproduction and emigration" and forgive me for my bad English. This not proper knowledge of the language compell me to be less articulate in my communication with you and I am sorry about that.

Sincerely

Marirosa Dalla Costa
